one of America's most influential corporations. HCA's founding in 1968 started a revolution in the healthcare industry, not only in Nashville, where the company began, but across the entire country. HCA was one of the first investor-owned hospital companies in the nation. As such, the company pioneered an entirely new way of running hospitals. Over the years, HCA has been a leader in balancing and improving the nation's healthcare system. Today it is one of the most well-respected companies in the nation and arguably stands head and shoulders above other investor-owned hospital companies when it come to policies, ethics, and quality healthcare.

GAO discussed the results of its review of the Hospital Corporation of America's (HCA) general and administrative expenses for its fiscal year ended December 31, 1991. GAO noted that: (1) $1.1 million of HCA general and administrative expenses were unallowable, questionable, or unsupported; (2) the majority of HCA expenses were unallowable in accordance with Medicare cost principles or questionable because the relationship between costs and patient care services was not clear; (3) there was insufficient documentation to determine the allowability of the costs; (4) the general nature of the Medicare cost principles was the primary reason HCA included unallowable and questionable costs in its Medicare report; (5) HCA excluded net costs of $431.7 million from its Medicare report, but allocated these costs to its hospitals, which increased health care costs at these facilities; and (6) Medicare cost principles do not contain guidance on the allowability of certain expenses and lack sufficient clarity to ensure consistent application by health care providers.

years 1990 to 2013. We study the variations in HCA's market and book leverage ratios due to 1) mergers and acquisitions, and divestitures that change a firm's total assets, 2) buybacks, and 3) leveraged buyouts and public offerings [sic] that change the firm's ownership. We scrutinize HCA's market and book leverage ratios' variations independently as well as relative to each other during the same periods of time. We find that i) HCA's management team used HCA's excess cash from divestitures to repurchase $1.7 billion of HCA's stocks and they also called about $1.35 billion of HCA's debt, ii) HCA's market leverage ratio tends to stay in a target leverage zone, and iii) in some years HCA's management team used the book leverage ratio as a tool to keep the
